› Recognition of Prior Learning (RPL)

ICC has a policy for RPL. Details are shown in the Student Handbook, Policy and Procedures Manual, marketing material, on the website and during the orientation session. ICC recognises that competencies can be achieved in a number of ways through:

- » Formal and informal training
- » Work experience
- » General life experience
- » Any combination of the above

All assessment pathways must incorporate RPL which allows competencies currently held by individuals to be formally benchmarked against relevant Training Packages and Accredited Courses. In this process the assessed current competencies of individuals should be recognised regardless of how, when or where they were achieved.

All students have the opportunity to apply for RPL prior to formal enrolment. Outline information is sent to all prospective students with enrolment material. Application for RPL is made on ICC's RPL Application Form and submitted to ICC for examination. Fee applies* for RPL assessments.

Students are required to provide authenticated documentation which may include:

- » Authenticated diplomas, certificates and other awards showing the results of formal training courses
- » Examples of project work/programs relevant to the competencies needed
- » Work experience, jobs held, duties carried out
- » Any other evidence the student considers appropriate for RPL

In addition, the student may be required to undertake practical tasks to demonstrate that they still have the required competencies. These tests will be arranged after consultation with the student.

ICC's staff are available to answer questions regarding any submission for RPL. The student will be notified as soon as possible of the results of their RPL application and any further action required. The student is encouraged to discuss any aspects of RPL with staff. Records of all such meetings and results of RPL are kept in the student's file.
